

Dave Rollinson, Co-Founder of HEBI Robotics, discusses a high-level overview of robotic actuation. Arguably, actuation for robotics is not a solved problem. This is mainly in due to a variety of ideas that Dave explores in this talk. Furthermore, he will give a couple of examples on types of actuation, including the various components that go into creating an actuator.