

Matthew Tesch, Co-Founder of HEBI Robotics, discusses the Jacobian matrix for robotic systems. He will briefly describe how to compute this matrix and some fundamental relations it defines. The Jacobian is key to many real-world robotic control tasks, and so some simple examples of using the Jacobian are shown on a physical robot arm.