This video covers methods for co-localizing robots and mixed reality devices together so that they can share spatial information.